PREFACE TO THE FIFTEENTH EDITION.

WE have pleasure in presenting the 1927-28 Edition of our Investor's India Year Book. As far as practicable, a digest of all Reports issued before November 30th has been included in the Financial Summary given in respect of each Company; all past features of the work have been retained.

During the year the Bill providing for the establishment of a Reserve Bank was introduced. A special Committee was appointed to discuss the provisions of the Bill and their Report was issued in July; the whole subject was hotly debated both in the Legislature and in public, but no terms acceptable to Government could be agreed upon and the announcement was made in September that further consideration of the Bill would be postponed sine die.

Other important happenings in the Indian Banking world have been the failure in April last of the Bengal National Bank and the passing of the control of the affiliated P. & O. and Allahabad Banks into the hands of the Chartered Bank of India.

Another matter vitally affecting Indian finance has been the stabilization of the rupee @ 1s. 6d., a Bill giving effect to this measure being passed by the Legislative Assembly, in March last, but it was only by a narrow majority, and after a good deal of feeling had been displayed on both sides.

For months previously an active campaign had been conducted by the protagonists of the 1s. 4d. rupee, and up to the very last it was doubtful whether the Bill would or would not pass.

The high level at which Government Securities and kindred investment stocks were standing during the latter half of 1926 has been maintained, price fluctuations having been inconsiderable. Until about the middle of September, the Security market was fairly active but since then, repeated issues of three and six months' Treasury Bills have taken over Rs. 22 crores of surplus money off the market (most of this money would in the ordinary course probably have found an outlet in Government Securities) with the result that a period of complete stagnation has supervened.

In July the new short-term Loan was floated, the terms offered being a 4 per cent. Loan at Rs. 94½ repayable in 1934 or 1937 at the option of Government; 1927 Bonds were accepted for subscription to the Loan at Rs. 100-12 and 1928 Bonds at Rs. 106-8. The terms offered were not received with enthusiasm chiefly owing to the low running yield obtainable, and only Rs. 20 crores in all, out of the Rs. 24 crores which Government wanted in cash and 1927 Bonds alone, were forthcoming, the "staggering" which was such a noticeable feature of last year's 1960-70 Loan being entirely absent.

A noticeable feature during the year has been the large amount of money which has gone out of the country for investment in the Sterling Securities of the Indian Government; these have been offering in London at prices showing a much higher yield than those obtainable on similar Rupee Securities of the Government of India. India Sterling $4\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. Loan, redeemable in 1950-55, for instance, can be bought in London at about 92 $\frac{1}{2}$, at which price the redemption yield is exactly 5 per cent.; the Indian Government 5 per cent. 1945-55 Loan at the present price of about 107 gives a redemption yield of only 4 $\frac{43}{100}$ per cent.

At no time during the year has money been scarce or dear for any prolonged period, and once again the usual seasonal tightness is unexpectedly late in making its appearance. For months past money has been lendable at remunerative rates only for short periods and then with difficulty.

Once again a great deal of money has been available for investment, but it has not been an easy matter to find a suitable outlet for such funds when a better return than is obtainable on Government and Trustee Stocks, coupled with reasonable security, has been looked for. As the result, demand has largely exceeded supply and to-day prices of all first-class investment securities, sound industrial debentures and preference shares are standing at record high levels.

Attractive new flotations have been few and far between, but when they have been available, they have been very quickly subscribed. To-day it is all but impossible to obtain more than about $5\frac{1}{4}$ per cent., taxable, on a really sound industrial debenture, or $5\frac{1}{2}$ per cent., free of tax, on a first-class Jute Mill preference share, although, of course, a higher yield is obtainable where the security offered is not quite so gilt-edged.

Conditions obtaining in the Jute trade show a great improvement on those existing last year when the Mills were experiencing rather bad times. As a result of a record Jute crop in 1926, followed by another very large crop this year, Jute has been cheap and plentiful and the demand for the manufactured article has been brisk; the result is that to-day the Mills are making profits on almost a record scale and all indications point to a continuance of this prosperity for some considerable time to come. Throughout the year Mills have continued to work 54 hours a week and, so long as this arrangement holds, there would appear to be no reason why the Industry should not continue to prosper exceedingly.

A very interesting feature in connection with Jute Mill shares is the attempt now being made to create a market for the shares of certain of the local Jute Mills on the London Stock Exchange; a considerable business has already been put through and if the efforts now being made to induce local Managing Agents to consent to the opening of a London Register, are successful, there would appear to be great possibilities of expansion in this direction.

The Coal trade has been experiencing a very dull time and prices generally have not been remunerative; second-class coal has been almost unsaleable, and what little demand there has been, has been at prices which have left no margin whatever, with the result that many collieries have found it necessary to close down altogether. On the other hand, collieries mining only first-class coal and which are well equipped and capable of a large output, show good results and as far as can be seen should continue to do so.

There has been a satisfactory increase in the export coal trade, the result of the insistence on careful grading of all shipment coal; competition, however, with South African and other coal in out-ports is keen and with the Indian Railways every year consuming more and more coal raised from their own collieries, this outlet for surplus raisings promises to become of increasing importance.

Tea looks like having a really good year. At the beginning of the season, prices realised at the public sales were disappointing, but as the year wore on, it became increasingly evident that the 1927 crop would not be a very large one and every week the statistical position in London became stronger. There would therefore appear to be more justification for the recent small tea boom than there was for many of the little flutters we have seen in the past.

The Cotton Industry has been rather under a cloud, fluctuations in the price of the raw material having been frequent and wide. The local yarn Mills are showing slightly better results than was the case more than a year ago, but the improvement is nothing very substantial owing to the competition of yarn spun in China and Japan. The Bombay Cotton Mills continue to experience thin times, the result of over-production, foreign competition, and, it is held in many quarters, of expensive and inefficient management.

The tone in the Miscellaneous department has been distinctly healthy. Engineering concerns in particular have entered upon a period of prosperity to which they have been strangers for some years past; increased profits are in evidence in increased dividends and in the prices at which shares are now standing compared to the level at which they were 12 months ago.

Up to a point the Sugar Industry showed signs of better times in store, but early promises have not been fulfilled and with a fall in the price of sugar, share values have eased off.

Shipping concerns have been doing well, the result of the general improvement in trade conditions and of the large jute and other crops which have had to be moved.

An interesting feature of this section of the market has been the large amount of attention paid to the shares of the various new Electric Lighting and Power Companies, many of which saw the light for the first time this year. Hitherto there have been comparatively few public Utility Companies operating in India, and such as there have been, have shown such good results that the shares of the newly-formed concerns, though unlikely to be on a dividend-paying basis for a couple of years yet, have been keenly sought after at a substantial premium.

Taken all round, the year under review has been a brighter and more prosperous one for Indian industries than we have seen for many years past, and with Indian finance on its present sound basis and more confidence being shown in Indian affairs generally, we look for a continuance of the present satisfactory conditions.

We again take this opportunity of expressing our indebtedness to the Managing Agents, Secretaries and others through whose assistance and co-operation alone we are able to present the public with the information contained in this book.

SECTION II.—BANKS.

THE year 1927 has been an important one in the history of Banking in India.

On 17th January particulars were published in the "Gazette of India Extraordinary" of the proposed Bill in connection with the "Establishment and Incorporation of the Reserve Bank of India, to be constituted for the purpose of taking over the management of the Currency from the Government and of carrying on the business of banking in accordance with the provisions of the Act."

Briefly, the original proposals of Government were for the establishment of a Reserve Bank with a Share Capital of 50 million rupees, in shares of Rs. 500 each, the Imperial Bank to be given the option of subscribing three-tenths, and the remainder, together with any shares not taken up by the Imperial Bank, to be offered for Public subscription.

The Imperial Bank of India was to be the sole Agent of the Reserve Bank at all places where there is a branch of the Imperial Bank and no branch of the Reserve Bank, and subject to the Imperial Bank keeping open branches not less in number than those existing at the time of coming into force of the Reserve Bank Bill, the Reserve Bank was to allow the following balances to the Imperial Bank at the undernoted rates of interest, namely:

- (a) During the first five years—3 crores free of interest;
- (b) during the second five years—2 crores free of interest and, at the option of the Imperial Bank of

India, an amount not exceeding 1 crore at 2 per cent. per annum;

- (c) during the third five years—1 crore free of interest and, at the option of the Imperial Bank of India, an amount not exceeding 2 crores at 2 per cent. per annum; and
- (d) during the last 10 years—at the option of the Imperial Bank of India, an amount not exceeding 3 crores at 2 per cent. per annum.

For each new branch opened by the Imperial Bank of India with the approval of the Reserve Bank of India in addition to the branches already opened when this agreement came into force, the Imperial Bank of India was to be allowed the following balances free of interest for each branch so opened, namely:—

- (a) During the first five years—3 lakhs,
- (b) During the second five years—2 lakhs.

The Reserve Bank was to have the sole right of note issue for a period of 25 years from the coming into force of the Act.

A Special Committee was appointed to consider the provisions of the Bill; a great deal of evidence was taken and the Exchange Banks were asked for an expression of their opinion, a Summary of the Committee's Report being published in the daily Press on 26th July.

They recommended certain very drastic alterations in the proposed Bill, the most important of these concerning the composition of the Directorate of the Bank and the method of providing the necessary capital. The Government's proposals provided for a Board of Directors, exclusive of the Governor and Deputy Governor, of:—

- (a) Nine directors elected by the shareholders, to represent various business interests,
- (b) three directors nominated by Government to represent the interests of commerce, industry and agriculture respectively, and
- (c) one officer of Government.

No person who was a Member of the Indian or Local Legislature, or an official of any other Bank, was to be eligible to become a Director of the Reserve Bank.

The Special Committee by a majority decided to recommend that the Capital of the Reserve Bank should be held by the State and that the Legislatures should have the right to elect six of the Directors of the Bank, proposals which the Finance Member could not see his way to accept. The whole matter was fought out in the Assembly in September last when alternative proposals for a Stockholders' Bank were brought forward; no agreement acceptable to both parties however could be arrived at, with the result that it was announced on 9th September that further consideration of the Bill would be postponed sine die. These matters rest at the time of writing.

A painful sensation was caused on 28th April last by the announcement that the Bengal National Bank had suspended payment. The Bank was of course quite a small one, but from sentimental reasons it held a considerable position in Bengal and the suspension, though not altogether unexpected in business circles, came as a bombshell to many and caused universal regret. The management appears to have left a great deal to be desired but as legal proceedings against certain officials of the Bank are in progress at the time of writing, further comment must be deferred.

In October it was announced that the Chartered Bank of India had obtained control of the P. & O. Bank, holders of over 51 per cent. of the shares of the last named having accepted an offer made by the former for the purchase of these shares at £10-16 per share payable on 31st December, 1927. The control therefore becomes effective as from 1st January, 1928. It was only in 1921 that the P. & O. Bank acquired a controlling interest in the old established Allahabad Bank with branches all over the country. The latter Bank however continues a separate existence under different management and we understand that a similar arrangement is in contemplation as regards the P. & O. The merger therefore is more in the nature of an affiliation than an absolute absorption.

When this merger becomes effective the combination will be one of the strongest operating in the East. The Joint Banks between them have a paid-up capital of £5,777,000, with reserves totalling £4,440,000; according to the last published figures, the total liquid assets amount to £32,310,318 and the total resources to £72,583,700. No less than 89 branches are covered by the three Banks at the time of writing.

To turn to Banks in India in general, we propose now briefly to refer to the principal Exchange Banks, capitalised in Sterling, as well as the important group of Rupee Banks having their head offices in India.

Of these latter the Imperial Bank of India is the most important. It was formed by the amalgamation of the three Presidency Banks, the Banks of Bengal, Bombay and Madras, under the provisions of the Imperial Bank of India Act, 1920. The Act was intended, not only to provide an All-India Bank in the chief commercial centres, but to encourage the growth of the banking habit throughout India.

An obligation was therefore laid upon the Imperial Bank to open one hundred new branches within five years of its inception. This obligation has been duly met and the new branches are now open and transacting business.

Originally the three Presidency Banks were known as Chartered Banks, and in point of antiquity and standing, the Bank of Bengal ranked first, having been founded as long ago as 1806 as the Bank of Calcutta. From the very beginning up to January, 1921, the Bank steadily improved its position, its name being changed in 1809 to the more familiar title, upon the grant of its first charter by Government. The Banks of Bombay and Madras were constituted by special Acts of 1840 and 1843, the latter succeeding the Government Bank of Madras. It is curious to note that the Bank of Bombay failed in the year 1868, the immediate cause being the effect on the Bombay Cotton Market of the American Civil War. Shareholders lost practically the whole of their capital, but Bombay financiers, almost as enterprising then as now, lost no time in founding a new Bank, and in the same year the Bank of Bombay, as we all knew it, was established. Up to the year 1862, the Presidency Banks held the privilege of issuing their own notes, while, until the renewal of the charters in 1876, a portion of their capital was always held by Government. The decision to relinquish these holdings was probably influenced by the failure of the Bank of Bombay referred to above, when Government found itself in an embarrassing position. It is interesting enough to note that these charters were largely based on the 1695 constitution of the Bank of England.

Of the remaining Rupee Banks, by far the most important are the Allahabad Bank, the Central Bank of India and the Bank of India, and of these easily the oldest is the Allahabad Bank. Established as far back as 1865 the Bank has, as the result of careful and conservative management, continued steadily to expand and in October, 1927, had 17 branches open in Calcutta and Bombay and various places in India. The affiliation arrangements affecting the Bank are referred to above.

Both the Central Bank of India and the Bank of India owe their inception to Bombay enterprise, their Head Offices being situated in that city with one or more branches in Calcutta and many of the important towns in India. The Central Bank of India in 1923 absorbed the Tata Industrial Bank and later acquired control of the Union Bank of Bombay, though the latter maintains a separate existence under the management of the Central Bank.

Another important purely Indian Bank is the Punjab National Bank. As its name implies, it is concerned chiefly with banking interests in the North of India, but it has open 41 branches, including one in Calcutta.

Of the Sterling Banks, the Chartered Bank of India, Australia and China is the oldest, but though founded in 1853, it commenced business here only in 1857 when branches were opened in Calcutta and Bombay. The Bank does a large business in the Far East and the Straits, in addition to its business in India, but it is noteworthy that though its charter is valid for Australia, the Bank has no office there. The proposal to establish a connection in Australia has been made several times since 1853, but, due principally to local opposition, this has never been carried out.

Next in point of age comes the National Bank of India, established in 1863 as the Calcutta Banking Corporation. The name was changed the following year to the present title, while the Head Office was transferred from Calcutta to London in 1866. The Bank has offices in all the more important cities of India, and assists largely in the development of India's trade with East Africa, where ten other branches are located.

The Mercantile Bank of India has been in existence under its present name since 1893, but actually is much older than this, having been formed out of the old Chartered Bank of India, London and China, which was established in 1851. This Bank has branches in the principal cities of India, Ceylon, China and the Straits, as well as an office in New York.

The Eastern Bank was established in 1910, and has offices in Calcutta, Bombay, Madras and Colombo, as well as six branches in Mesopotamia. The Bank was founded by Messrs. E. D. Sassoon in association with Messrs. Brown, Shipley & Co. of London, and certain French banking interests.

The P. & O. Banking Corporation was established in 1921 and as its name implies has hitherto been closely connected with the great shipping organisation of that name; from 1st January, 1928, however the control of the Bank, together with that of the Allahabad Bank with which it became affiliated in 1921, will pass to the Chartered Bank of India, Australia and China.

Lloyds Bank Ltd. are now established in India, having taken over the well-known business of Cox & Co., Ltd., and the various Indian branches of H. S. King & Co. This move is one of considerable importance to Indian banking as Lloyds Bank is one of the greatest of the great London Banks.

Another comparatively recent and important affiliation is that of the old established business of Grindlay & Co. with the National Provincial Bank of England, another of the great London Banks.

Although neither a Sterling nor a Rupee Bank, this review cannot be regarded as complete without reference to the Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation. Established in 1867 by ordinance of the Hongkong Legislative Council, this Bank, which has had a branch open in Calcutta for many years, has shown continuous and steady expansion since its inception, and has now 37 branches established all over Asia, as well as its offices in London, New York, San Francisco, Hamburg and Lyons.

Taking the Hongkong dollar as being worth 2s. (the present value is slightly above this), the last Balance Sheet issued by this Bank shows it to be in an exceptionally strong position. With an authorized capital of £5,000,000, of which only £2,000,000 has been issued and paid up, the Reserve Funds amount to no less than £7,350,000, of which £6,000,000 is in Sterling reserve.

The liquidation of the Alliance Bank of Simla continues, a further dividend of one anna in the rupee, making ten annas in all, having been distributed to creditors, other than shareholders, on 4th July 1927. The dividend of eight annas which was advanced by the Imperial Bank and paid to depositors at the time of the Alliance Bank failure in 1923 was repaid to the first named, a second dividend of one anna being paid to creditors on 16th November, 1925.

Lloyds Bank Limited is one of the oldest as well as one of the largest of the great London joint stock banks, it having been formed as a private bank in 1765 and incorporated as a joint stock company just a hundred years later. It has recently absorbed or acquired a preponderant holding in many other well-known banks, among the most recent being the Capital and Counties Bank Ltd., the National Bank of Scotland Ltd., and the Bank of London and South America, Limited in 1918, the West Yorkshire Bank, Limited in 1919, and Fox Fowler & Co., in 1921.

The absorptions, however, that are of most interest to India, were those in 1923 of the well-known Eastern businesses of Cox & Co., and H. S. King & Co. and associated firms.

Capital authorized—£74,000,000 in 14,500,000 "A" Shares of £5 each and 1,500,000 "B" Shares of £1 each. Capital subscribed—£73,302,076 in 14,372,956 "A" Shares of £5 each and 1,437,296 "B" Shares of £1 each. Capital paid up—£15,810,252 in 14,372,956 "A" Shares on which £1 per share has been called up and 1,437,296 "B" Shares fully paid. Accounts made up yearly to 31st December.

The Capital was increased in February, 1926, to its present figure by the issue of 1,500,000 bonus shares (referred to above as "B" Shares), by capitalization of part of the profit derived from realization of Investments at prices exceeding their cost to the Company.

SECTION III. --RAILWAYS.

THIS section deals with Railway Companies registered in India. Of these there are at present thirty-four, whose shares are quoted on the Indian Stock Exchanges, representing a total capitalization (including Debentures) of approximately Rs. 12,07,58,680. All these railways have been built only after obtaining the sanction of the Government of India, and we reproduce extracts from the terms on which the Government of India are prepared to grant financial assistance for the construction and future working of railways in India:

- (vii). The Government of India will grant financial assistance to approved companies either in the shape of a guarantee of interest, or of a rebate to the branch line company, from the net earnings of the main line from traffic interchanged with the branch. Assistance in the latter form can only be promised where the main line is worked by the State, but the Government of India will, in other cases, endeavour to arrange on behalf of the branch line company a similar agreement with the company working the parent line. A rebate and a guarantee of interest cannot be granted simultaneously in respect of the same branch line. In cases where the entire capital is raised by the issue of shares the following terms will apply:—

- (a) Guarantee of interest.—The Government of India will be prepared to guarantee, from the close of the period during which interest is payable out of capital, interest at the rate of $3\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. per annum on the approved paid-up share capital of the company, to the end of the financial year, in respect of which the dividend is declared, subject to the condition that all surplus profits which may be earned by the company after paying interest on the paid-up share capital at the rate of 5 per cent., shall be equally divided between the Government and the company. This guarantee, where given, will remain in force until the line is purchased by the Government. Any sums payable by the Government under the guarantee shall be payable in rupees.
- (b) Rebate.—When the branch line connects with a railway owned and worked by the State, the Government of India will be prepared to allow the company in respect of, and at the end of each financial year, by way of rebate, such a sum, not exceeding in any year the net earnings (exclusive of earnings derived from the carriage of revenue stores) from traffic interchanged between such State railway and the branch line as shall, together with the net earnings of the branch line, make up an amount equal in interest at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum, on the approved paid-up share capital of the company. This undertaking will be subject to the proviso that, when the net earnings of the company, without the assistance of a rebate, suffice to pay interest at a rate exceeding 5 per cent. on the paid-up share capital, the surplus shall be divided equally between the Government and the company. The payment of rebate shall commence at the close of the period during which interest is payable from capital. Payments on account will, subject to subsequent adjustment, be permissible at the end of each half-year. For the purpose of calculating the rebate, the net earnings of the main line from traffic interchanged with the branch, will be assumed to bear the same proportion to the gross earnings of the main line from such traffic as the net earnings of the whole main line system, including the branch, bear to the gross earnings of the whole system.

(ix) Where the main line is a railway owned and worked by the State, the main line administration will, if it is so desired, work the branch line for a percentage of the gross earnings of the branch. When the branch and main line are of the same gauge this percentage will usually be that obtaining on the whole system, including the branch, from time to time, but will not in any case exceed 50 per cent. of the gross earnings of the branch from all sources, and will include all charges on account of the use of the main line rolling-stock, subject to the condition that the company shall, if and when required to do so during the continuance of the working contract, bear the capital portion of the cost as stated by the Government of strengthening the permanent-way and bridges of the branch line to enable the rolling-stock for the time being of the working railway to be used on it without restriction. Where the gauges are not the same, special working terms will be fixed in each case. When the main line is not worked by State agency, the Government of India, if desired to do so by the branch line company, will endeavour to negotiate similar terms for working with the main line administration.

(x) No capital expenditure by the branch line company shall be recognised, as between the Government of India and the company, unless the prior sanction of the Government of India to that expenditure has been obtained. The company shall have no power to increase its share or stock capital without the sanction of the Government of India or the Secretary of State, or to borrow money otherwise than for purely temporary purposes, except on conditions to be specified by these authorities.

(xx) All agreements for lines constructed under these terms, shall include a special purchase clause permitting the Government of India to purchase the lines at any time, after giving one year's notice, in the following cases:—

(1) When the Government of India consider it desirable that the gauge of the branch line should be altered.

(2) When it is desired to convert the branch line into a line of through communication.

(3) When the Government of India desire to extend the branch line without altering the gauge or making the line part of a through route, and the branch line company is unable or unwilling to supply the necessary capital for such extension.

In the event of a line being purchased under this clause, the price payable shall be 25 times the average net earnings (excluding payments on account of guarantee or rebate) during the three years preceding the purchase, or 115 per cent. of the capital expenditure on the line, whichever may be the greater. All payments shall be made on a rupee basis.

(xx) The arrangements shall also include an ordinary purchase clause permitting the Government of India to purchase the lines at the expiry of 30 years from the date on which the railway was declared open for traffic, or at subsequent intervals of 10 years, subject to the condition that at least one year's previous notice of the intention to purchase has been given. The price payable on purchase under this clause shall be 25 times the average net annual earnings (excluding payments on account of guarantee or rebate) during the three years preceding the purchase, subject to a maximum of 120 per cent. and a minimum of 100 per cent of the capital expenditure on the line at the time of purchase. All payments shall be made on a rupee basis.

Regarding the guarantee of interest by the Government of India it will be seen that this has hitherto been at the rate of $3\frac{1}{2}$ per cent., such rate having been fixed when $3\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. paper was in the neighbourhood of par. Existing conditions require a much higher rate, but on the other hand Government are not likely to bind themselves to a high guarantee in perpetuity in view of the likelihood of Government's borrowing rate continuing to fall as the effects of the war wear off. It is, therefore, difficult at present for promoters of branch railways and Government to come to terms, with the result that in one or two cases recently negotiations have fallen through and Government have themselves taken on the construction of branch lines.

In addition to those which hold the guarantee of the Secretary of State, several railways are guaranteed by District Boards. Should a case arise in which the District Board concerned are unable to meet their obligations in regard to the interest guaranteed, the liability would fall on Provincial funds. Resolution No. 3210A., dated the 22nd July, 1898, issued by the Finance and Commerce Department, deals with this matter, and points out that, in certain special circumstances, the sanction of the Government of India has to be obtained before the guarantee of a District Board can be given.

There are also various companies, which are not in receipt of a subsidy or guarantee of any kind; and practically the only concession which has been extended to them is that they have been provided with the necessary land free of cost. Nevertheless in respect of some of those lines also, in addition to the right of purchase, Government has stipulated for a share in the profits.

The important question of company super-tax has recently been settled in the companies' favour. Minimum yields under Government Guarantee or Rebate will in future be subject to income tax only, company super-tax being treated as a working expense and, therefore, not affecting the shareholders' income until earnings exceed the guaranteed minimum.

The terms on which the State has the right to acquire the property are matters of very great importance, and should be carefully studied by the investor. Full particulars are to be found under the headings of the majority of the companies, and, with regard to the remainder, reference to page 30, paras. (xx) and (xxi), will give details of the redemption terms.

Further, there is the important question of working expenses. In the case of branch lines, built as feeders to State lines, the State undertakes, if the branch line company so desires, to work the branch through the parent line at a percentage of its gross earnings. This percentage is usually that obtaining on the whole system inclusive of the branch, but in no case will it exceed 50 per cent. of the gross earnings of the branch line. This charge includes the use of rolling-stock, and, therefore, after deducting the usual allowance of 5 per cent. of gross earnings for the use of rolling-stock, it will be seen that the arrangement is equivalent to an offer by the State to work the line at a maximum of 45 per cent. of its gross earnings. The percentage of working expenses to gross earnings of all Indian railways treated as one system for the past six years are given in the margin from which it will be seen that the terms granted by the State are liberal. It is seldom that the working expenses of independently worked systems can be kept under 50 per cent. of their gross earnings, and unless, therefore, they have a heavy traffic, they can seldom prove very attractive investments. The case is, however, different when the length of the line, as in the case of the Shahdara (Delhi)-Saharanpur and the Arrah-Sasaram Light Railways, is well over fifty miles.

Before the war there was a steady demand for Light Railway shares on investment account, but after the war many shares went to a heavy discount. For this there were two main reasons. Firstly, the restrictions imposed by the war not only checked the development of the Branch lines but also affected them indirectly through the shortage of rolling stock on the trunk lines. Secondly, the Government guarantee of $3\frac{1}{2}$ per cent., which had appeared attractive in 1913, took on a much reduced value when the Government borrowing rate had risen to over 6 per cent.

During the past four years, however, there has been a notable all-round improvement. The more prosperous lines have shown much better earnings and increased dividends are now being paid by a number of lines. Moreover the Government borrowing rate having again declined, the guaranteed interest has ipso facto become more valuable and there has accordingly been an all-round improvement in prices of Light Railway shares.

We give below comparative statements which we trust will prove of interest and assistance to intending investors, showing the total mileage and capital outlay, etc., of all the railways in India, and giving details of the various working arrangements, and rebate and direct guarantees in force, in respect of the different Light Railway systems registered in India.

extension. Land required for the Railway in the British territory has been provided, free of cost, by the Government, and the Secretary of State, in return for these concessions, has the right to acquire the Company's line by purchase on giving twelve months' notice on the 31st December, 1930, the 31st December, 1940, or the 31st December, 1946. Agents—Messrs. Gillanders, Arbuthnot & Co., 8, Clive Street, Calcutta. Actg. General Manager—F. R. Bagley, Esq. Auditors—Messrs. Price, Waterhouse, Peat & Co.

Capital authorized, issued and subscribed—Rs. 61,25,000 in 17,500 Ordinary shares of Rs. 100 each, and 43,750 5 per cent. cumulative Preference shares of Rs. 100 each, carrying preferential claim to repayment of capital. Debenture Capital—Rs. 17,25,000 equivalent to £115,000 3½ per cent. stock redeemable any year on the 4th May on six months' notice. Interest paid in London half-yearly on 30th June and 31st December. Accounts made up yearly to 31st March.

The Darjeeling-Himalayan Railway is 51 miles in length and connects the hill stations of Darjeeling and Kurseong with Siliguri, a station at the foot of the hills, on the Eastern Bengal Railway.

The Company was permitted the free use of the cart road for the purposes of the Railway, but was required to meet the cost of strengthening such bridges as might be necessary. All additional land required, which was the property of Government, was supplied to the Company, free of cost. In addition, the Secretary of State undertook to meet the cost of maintaining the cart road, as distinct from the actual railway line running along it, and guaranteed gross earnings to the Company to the extent of two lakhs of rupees a year. As a set-off against these liberal concessions the State is entitled to receive a certain share of any surplus profits over 5 per cent. in order to recoup itself for money spent on the upkeep of the cart road, or in making good the guarantee of rupees two lakhs.

Further, the Secretary of State had the option of acquiring the Company's railway on the 4th May, 1900, after the line had been opened for 25 years. This right was waived, but the option of purchase can again be exercised by giving twelve months' previous notice on the 4th May, 1929, or at the end of any subsequent period of ten years. Should the Secretary of State exercise this option at any time, the purchase price is fixed at the value of the property as a dividend-earning investment at the date of giving such notice, together with an additional bonus of 20 per cent. over and above such value. In case of dispute the matter is to be determined by arbitration, and it is in this connection important to observe that the price to be paid on purchase is not subject to any fixed maximum under the terms of the contract with the Secretary of State.

The preference capital was issued to provide funds for the acquisition, by the Darjeeling-Himalayan Railway Company, of the entire capital of the Darjeeling-Himalayan Extension Company, Limited.

The Company is entitled to receive the entire balance of the gross earnings and the working agency do not share in the profits of the feeder Company, in any circumstances, so far as these two lines are concerned. The feeder Company receives no guarantee of any description or other concession beyond the free grant of land, and the Secretary of State, on giving twelve months' notice of his intention, has the right to purchase the lines on the 31st December, 1928, or at the expiration of any subsequent period of ten years. The terms of purchase are fixed at twenty-five times the average net earnings derived by the Company for the three years immediately preceding the purchase, subject to a maximum of 120 per cent. of the capital expenditure and to a minimum of the capital expenditure.

SECTION IV.—COAL,

COAL SECTION.—The industrial development of India is in its infancy and coal mining has not yet assumed that degree of importance which, considering the extent and accessibility of its coal deposits, the size and population of the country would appear to warrant. The total output of India from all sources over the past eight years is given below:—

	Tons.
1919	... 22,628,037
1920	... 17,962,214
1921	... 19,302,947
1922	... 19,010,986
1923	... 19,656,883
1924	... 21,176,606
1925	... 20,900,088
1926	... 20,999,167

The total production is small in comparison with the vast quantities raised in countries like Great Britain and America, but the rate of increase has been by no means insignificant:—

	Tons.
1880	... 1,019,793
1890	... 2,168,521
1900	... 6,118,692
1910	... 12,047,416
1920	... 17,962,214
1926	... 20,999,167

The most valuable deposits of coal in India are found in the Coalfields of Bengal, Bihar and Orissa, situated in Chota Nagpur and Budwan. The most important of these Fields are Raneegunge, Jharia, Kurkhabaree, Bokaro, Karanpura, Ramgur and Talcher. During 1926 they produced 19,093,463 tons out of India's total production of 20,999,167 tons. A statement showing the quantity of coal produced in each Province and State in India during 1926 is given below:—

	Tons.
Bengal	5,137,689
Bihar and Orissa	13,955,775
Assam	301,061
Punjab	68,043
Baluchistan	15,586
Central Provinces	635,252
Hyderabad	637,779
Rajputana (Bikanir)	31,275
Central India (Rewah)	216,708
Total	20,999,167

RANEEGUNGE FIELD.—The most important seams in the Raneegunge Field are the Dishergarh, Poniat and Sanctoria, followed by the Ghusick, Koithi, Chanch, Salanpur "A," Samla, Kajora Jambad, etc. In the Raneegunge Field the percentage of volatile matter in the coals is high, in some cases as high as 35 per cent., making excellent gas coals.

The first three seams mentioned are of excellent quality and command the highest prices in the Indian Coal Trade. They are favourably situated geographically for the export trade, the rail freight being from 10 annas to one rupee per ton below that on coal from the Jharia Field. Many of the shafts however are deep, up to 1,450 feet vertical depth with extensive underground workings, and necessarily the raising costs are higher than in the Jharia, Bokaro, Karanpura Ramgur and Talcher Fields, where the coal seams are found at comparatively shallow depths.

JHARIA FIELD.—Mining operations in this Field first commenced in 1893, and development has been remarkably rapid. The Field consists chiefly of beds belonging to the Barakar stage, in which there are 18 Seams. The best of these are 13, 14, 14A, 15, 17 and 18, but the quality varies according to the locality. Generally speaking, Seams

1 to 9 are very inferior and work is confined chiefly to Nos. 10 to 18. The coals are of coking quality, essential to the future industrial development of India. The seams range from 5 feet to about 30 feet in thickness, and the shafts are comparatively shallow. The best coals from this Field sell usually at round about eight to twelve annas per ton below the Dishergarh, Sanctoria and Poniati Seams of the Raneegunge Field.

KURKHABARI FIELD.—This Field contains very high quality coal, practically the whole of which is controlled by the East Indian Railway Company, who use the output for their own needs.

BOKARO FIELD.—This area, about 220 square miles in extent, is owned mainly by the various Indian Railways, over 1,500,000 tons being raised in 1926. The seams are thick, worked easily and cheaply by quarries. The coal is not of the best quality. Output should increase steadily, the area containing at a rough estimate some 1,500 million tons of coal.

KARANPURA FIELD.—The Karanpura Field covers an area of some 550 square miles, containing at a rough estimate 8,825 million tons of coal. Railway connections have been made only recently into the Southern area, and this Field will undoubtedly become an important factor as Railway and mining development proceeds. It is situated in the Hazaribagh plateau with advantages in freight to Bombay. The seams are found at a shallow depth and are cheaply workable. The coal is of good steaming quality.

The prospecting of the Northern area of Karanpura is not yet completed.

TALCHER FIELD.—This Field, one of the latest developments in Indian mining, is situated about 60 miles west of Cuttack.

The Cuttack Talcher Coalfields Railway has been completed only recently. The Bengal-Nagpur Railway Co., Ltd., is proceeding with extensive developments at the Port of Vizagapatam, the natural outlet by sea for coal from the Talcher Field. The area is situated advantageously for Southern India markets.

The coal seams are from 9 feet to 12 feet thick, found at a depth of about 150 feet. The coal is of very good steaming quality.

A large area has been acquired recently by the Bengal-Nagpur and Madras and Southern Maharatta Railway Companies who will raise coal for their own use.

The imports of coal into India for the last four years have been:—

During 1926 Indian coal replaced imported coal to a large extent, owing no doubt to the low prices which ruled during the year.

The largest consumers of coal in India are the Railways, and it will therefore be of interest to compare their consumption over the past seven years with the total output of India over the same period:—

	Railway Consumption.		Output.

Figures for 1926 are not available.

Other large consumers of coal are the Jute and Cotton Mills, Ocean and River Steamers, Iron and Steel Works and ~~the~~ is also the export trade. The exports of cargo coal from Calcutta during the last nine years are given below:—

The Indian Coal Grading Board appointed by legislation in 1925 to classify the different Indian Collieries and seams prepare a Grading List, and grant Certificates of shipment which has been of considerable assistance to the Industry. Collieries included in the Grading List receive a special rebate on Railway Freight, and a reduction of Port dues, on all shipments of cargo coal approved of by the Grading Board. Coal exports during 1926 show a satisfactory increase, and whilst there is no doubt that the better quality of coal shipped under the supervision of the Grading Board helped matters considerably, the main cause of the increase must be attributed to the Coal strike in England. The demand for Indian coal, consequent upon the strike, occurred at a time when many Collieries were carrying heavy stocks, and whilst the effects of the strike were disastrous in England, the clearing of these stocks was of great benefit to the Coal Trade in India. For the first time in history, coal cargoes were shipped from India to the United Kingdom, 46,593 tons being shipped during 1926. 107,986 tons were also shipped to Egypt, to which country India cannot export coal in normal times at competitive prices. 59,342 tons were exported to Aden, and a decided stimulus was given to the trade in Eastern waters. It will be impossible to retain many of the markets secured at that time, but, nevertheless, the quality of the coal, shipped under the supervision of the Grading Board, has enabled Indian coal to gain a substantial footing in new markets and in markets lost owing to the poor quality of shipments in past years.

The strike also resulted in a substantial increase in the demand for bunker coal at Calcutta as will be seen from the following figures:—

	Tons.
1922	575,140
1923	606,132
1924	697,979
1925	640,204
1926	910,459

Turning to the internal demand, the following figures are for 1925:—

	Percentage.
Railways	31.1
Bunker Coal	5.0
Admiralty and R. I. M. Accounts1
Jute Mills	4.6
Cotton Mills	4.4
Foundries and Engineering Works	24.3
Inland Steamers	2.7
Brick and Cement Works	2.3
Port Trusts	1.0
Paper Mills6
Tea Gardens	1.1
Colliery Consumption and Wastage	12.9
Other Industrial and Domestic	9.9
Total	100.0

From these the important position of the Railways as consumers is apparent.

Development of the new Coalfields, Karanpura, Bokaro and Talcher, is in the initial stages. A few years hence they should add substantially to India's output, but at the present time the problem of disposing of this output appears insurmountable.

The Coal Industry is faced with the fact that the Railways are developing for their own use large areas in the Bokaro and Talcher Fields, whilst they are raising already a large output from the Kurkhabari and Bokaro Fields. Various Railway electrification schemes are either in hand or contemplated.

About three-quarters of the coal produced in India is financed by capital supplied through the agency of Joint Stock Companies, and the balance by private owners which include Railway Companies. Generally speaking, the coals vital to the industrial development of India—the coking and gas coals are owned by the Joint Stock Companies. Development by Railways of their own Collieries, thereby reducing their purchases in the open market, is forcing down the price of coal to such an extent that it is becoming impossible for many of the joint stock companies to keep their Collieries open.

Prices paid by the Railway Board over the last five years are quoted below:—

		Deshergarh.	sed.	Selected Jherriah	Revised.	1st Jht	Rei
1921-22	...	8-0	...	6-8	...	5-12
1922-23	...	11-8	...	9-8	...	8-12
1923-24	...	11-12	...	10-4	...	9-8
1924-25	...	12-8	10-8	11-0	9-12	10-4	9-0
1925-26	...	10-4	...	9-8	...	8-12
1926-27	...	6-12	...	6-0	...	5-0
1927-28	...	5-8	...	4-12	...	4-0

Prices have again fallen during the year 1927 and at the time of writing (November 1927) market rates may be taken to be approximately as follows:—

Deshergarh, Rs. 6 per ton.

Selected Jherriah, Rs. 5 per ton.

First-class Jherriah, Rs. 4 per ton.

Prices at present are at a lower level than they have been for many years, whereas the mines in the Raneegunge and Jharia Coalfields continue to go deeper, and have more difficulties to contend with year by year.

It is to be remembered that the Railways in taking up coal lands are merely taking the place of other producers into whose hands these properties would otherwise have fallen. Development in the Karanpura, Bokaro and Talcher Fields of cheap coal was inevitable.

Owing to low prices a large number of second class Collieries in the Raneegunge and Jharia Fields have closed down. This has not affected the total output from these areas, as the labour has transferred itself to Collieries working first class coal.

The future of the Coal Industry is obscure. Only considerable industrial development can absorb the increased quantity of coal becoming available as a result of (1) the opening up of new and cheaply worked Coalfields, and (2) the reduction in the quantity of coal purchased by the Railways.

It is to be remembered however that the Raneegunge and Jharia Fields possess the coking and gas coals essential to steel and iron works, and any development in these industries would be of great benefit to companies mining in these fields.

COAL.

A comparison of the share values of a number of the more prominent Coal Companies as on the 1st September, 1927, with the three preceding years is given below:

	1st Sept. 1924	1st Sept. 1925	1st Sept. 1926	1st Sept. 1927
Standard	61	56½	51½	56½
New Beerbhoom	37½	28	26½	23½
Raneegunge	49½	39½	31	32½

Burrakur	37	24½	19	15½

North West	54	38	45	44½
Adjai	370	311½	211	208
Equitable	212	16	18	202

The capital cost of a coal property is most important and is more difficult to assess than that of other industries where the cost per loom or per acre can be worked out with a fair degree of accuracy. The approximate cost of opening out a Colliery can be fairly well estimated, but it is much more difficult to arrive at the price which will be realised by the output and what return it will give upon capital outlay owing to market fluctuations and changing conditions. Taking into account that a coal mine is always a depreciating property, the investor should look for a return of 8 to 10 per cent. on his money.

At the present time investors will be wise to see that the Companies are strong financially, raising large outputs of the best quality and highest priced coals, and with large reserves of these coals available.

Registered 1908. Directors—H. B. Whitby, Esq.; C. R. Brandt, Esq.; G. H. Fairhurst, Esq. Managing Agents—Messrs. Kilburn & Co., 4, Fairlie Place, Calcutta. Auditors—Messrs. Price, Waterhouse, Peat & Co.

Capital authorized—Rs. 5,00,000. Capital issued and subscribed—Rs. 3,84,990 in shares of Rs. 10 each, fully paid up. Accounts made up yearly to 31st March.

The Company's properties are situated in the Ranegunge coalfields and are connected up with the East Indian Railway. They comprise an area of 3,394 highas in mouzahs Toposi, Bansra, Dhusal and Bajapti. The only property at present worked is the Toposi. This property was tested by a bore hole in the centre of the Colliery 627 feet deep. Four seams of coal were proved in the following order:—The Toposi seam, 36 feet thick; the Chowkidanga, 11 feet thick; the Dhusal, 6 feet thick; and the Nundy seam, 13 feet thick.

The quantity of coal in the Toposi mouzah alone (600 highas) is estimated at 9,110,880 tons, which, with an output of 50,000 tons a year, would give the Colliery a life of 160 years. Drill holes put down in Bansra Mouzah have proved the Bowla Toposi, Chowkidanga, Dhusal, and Nundy seams. The Toposi and Chowkidanga seams are being worked by means of shafts. So far as is known there is only one fault through the Toposi Colliery, running from East to West and it has not disturbed the seam of coal to any extent. The average annual output of coal is at present 22,000 tons, but this could be largely increased if labour were available and a market obtainable for the coal. The royalty payable on all coal raised is five annas a ton subject to a minimum royalty of Rs. 6,000 per annum.

Capital authorized, issued and subscribed—Rs. 20,00,000 in 400,000 shares of Rs. 5 each, fully paid up. Accounts made up yearly to 30th September.

The Company was formed to acquire from the East India Prospecting Syndicate the leasehold rights over approximately 14,000 bighas of coal-bearing land in the Talcher Coalfield, situated in Orissa, some 60 miles west of Cuttack, containing first and second-class coal. Up to the present two first-class seams have been located and proved. The upper one is 6 to 9 feet thick, and the lower 10 to 13 feet in thickness. Taking a conservative figure it may be safely computed that there are at least 52 million tons of first-class coal available without taking into consideration the second and third-class seams. The quality is equal to that of first-class Jherria coal.

The two rise shafts Nos. 1 and 2 are now developed and equipped to yield an output of 8,000 tons per mensem.

Development work on both dip shafts Nos. 3 and 4 has been suspended, owing to adverse market conditions, since they have now reached a position where they can be put into operation at a short notice.

RAILWAY LINE.—The line was opened for traffic on the 20th January, 1927.

PROPERTY SALES.—The sales to the Bengal-Nagpur Railway and the Madras and Southern Mahratta Railway have now been finally completed.

In October, 1927, the capital of the Company was reduced to its present figure firstly by reducing the nominal value of each of the existing shares from Rs. 10 to Rs. 7-8 and secondly by returning to the shareholders Rs. 2-8 in cash, in respect of each of the above shares.

2,712,000 tons. In addition second-class seams Nos. 10, 11 and 12 underlie the property at easy depths. The output of the Colliery which is worked by means of inclines and pits to seams Nos. 13, 14 and 15 is about 9,000 to 7,000 tons a month, and on the basis of this output the property may be said to have a life of from 30 to 35 years as regards its first-class coal. SECTION V.—COTTON.

UNLIKE jute, which is a monopoly of Bengal, cotton in India is grown over a wide area and, as climatic conditions vary over such a large tract of country, the seasons for planting and picking are divergent in different parts.

The greater portion of the Indian crop is of short staple, but a quantity of better staple is grown in the Broach district in the Bombay Presidency, in and on the borders of Hyderabad, and in the Southern Presidency, notably Tinnevely and Coimbatore.

In Northern India also, better stapled cotton is cultivated—originally from imported American seed—under the style of Punjab/American or Sind/American. This is grown mostly on irrigated lands, an extension of which area is looked for.

In most parts of India the crop is dependent on the annual monsoon, but in Punjab and Sind, it is mainly irrigated. The distribution of cotton cultivation is shown by the following figures:—

Area under cotton in thousands of acres and yield in thousands of bales of 400 lbs. each.

Of the total crop the greater part is exported while most of the remainder is spun in power mills though a portion, of which no statistics are available, passes direct into domestic consumption for hand spinning. The following figures show both the main avenues of export and, for comparison, the quantities consumed by power mills in India:—

Though the figures quoted above show that cotton planting is distributed over a large part of India, cotton manufacturing, both spinning and weaving, is predominantly a Bombay Industry, almost three-fourths of the output being produced in that Presidency, mainly in Bombay City and Ahmedabad. The industry has not shown such rapid expansion in recent years as the jute-milling industry, but there has been a fairly steady growth in output. The number of spindles, it will be noticed, has not greatly increased since 1909, but the number of looms has almost doubled so that a far larger proportion of yarn is now being used for weaving in Indian mills than was the case before the war. The total number of power mills in India is 275 of which no less than 82 mills with 73,000 looms are situated in Bombay, and about 120 more in Bombay Presidency, including, of course, the important centre of Ahmedabad. Of the 82 mills in Bombay, at the time of writing, 71 mills are actually working, 11 being closed for want of finance. It is estimated that of these 71 mills only 21 are actually working at a profit, the remaining 50 either just making both ends meet, or actually working at a loss. Unlike the jute trade, the mills are mainly under Indian management.

The following figures show the growth of the industry since 1908-09 :—

The cotton milling industry in India, like that of Japan, is mainly concerned with the production of the lower counts of yarn. The difference between these countries and Lancashire is illustrated by the fact that the United Kingdom with 39 per cent. of the world's spindles consumes only 16 per cent.

of the world's cotton crops whereas India and Japan with a sixth of the spindles of the United Kingdom consume 20 per cent. of the crop.

The following table shows the production of yarn in millions of lbs. arranged under the different counts :—

Before the war there was a considerable export trade in yarn to China, but this has gradually fallen away owing to the expansion of the industry in China, and the competition of Japanese mills. During the year 1927, exports to China dwindled to insignificant proportions and that country actually exported yarn to India in considerable quantities. In this connection the following table is instructive:—

Year	Yarn exports to China in millions of lbs.	Spindles in China.

On the other hand there has been a satisfactory increase in the export of woven

The principal customers are Mesopotamia, East Africa, the Persian Gulf Ports and Egypt.

During the latter years of the war and during the post-war boom very high profits were earned by the industry, but since 1921 up to the present year, bad times have been experienced. During 1927, moderate profits have been realised as the result of cheap cotton during the early part of the year, following the record American crop of approximately 18 million bales. Prices, however, advanced steadily during the year in anticipation of a small American crop in 1927-28, causing a restriction of trade which may lead to overproduction and a renewal of hard times for the Mill Industry.

The American crop for 1926-27 was 17,911,000 bales; and the Government Bureau Estimates for the present crop 1927-28 have been:—

8th August, 1927	...	13,492,000
8th September, 1927	...	12,692,000
8th October, 1927	...	12,678,000
9th November, 1927	...	12,842,000

The rate in New York for December position was—18.52 cts. on 1st August.

23.16 cts. on 1st September.

20.63 cts. on 11th October.

19.11 cts. on 29th November.

Similarly in Bombay, the rate for Broach delivery April-May, 1928, was—

Rs.

377 per candy on 1st August.

478 „ „ 2nd September.

404 „ „ 11th October.

378 „ „ 1st December.

The Indian crop 1926-27 was 4,973,000 bales, whilst the present crop 1927-28 is expected to approximate 6,000,000 bales.

The Government of India forecast for all India is not yet available.

The belated publication of the Report of the Tariff Board appointed to enquire into the conditions of the Cotton Textile Industry was made in June and the measures of protection recommended were considered by the Industry to be so inadequate that immediate representations were made to the Government of India for a reconsideration of the proposals. The assistance finally granted to the Industry consists mainly of the removal of Customs duty on Mill Stores and Machinery and the imposition of an import duty on yarns of $1\frac{1}{2}$ annas per lb. or 5 per cent. ad valorem, whichever is the greater. These benefits came into force on the 1st October.

SECTION VI.—JUTE.

JUTE competes with Cotton for the premier position among India's industries. While Cotton holds sway in Bombay and Western India, there is no question of the paramount importance of the Jute trade in Calcutta and Bengal. Jute, raw and manufactured, represents, on the average 55 per cent. of the exports of Indian merchandise from Calcutta to foreign countries, and in the year 1920-21 the proportion was as high as 65 per cent. Of the total exports of Indian merchandise from the whole of India, the jute trade represents an average of 25 per cent.

The following statistics show the exports of manufactured goods, the exports of raw jute, and finally the total exports in tons and value of all jute materials:—

It is only within comparatively recent times that jute has attained such an important position in India's trade, and in this connection it is of interest to refer to the growth of the manufacturing industry in India, a development due very largely to British initiative, capital and management. It is true that jute fibre was grown in India in ancient times, but its introduction as a useful and necessary article in the trade and commerce of the world dates back only to the first half of last century. Different vegetable fibres were made use of in the country before the arrival of the English, but it was not until the East India Company's officials were asked to search for useful substitutes for hemp, to be used for the ropes and cordage of the Company's ships, that Dr. Roxburgh, the Founder and Director of the Botanic Gardens, Calcutta, discovered the possibilities of jute and sent Home a bale in 1795. He described the fibre in his letter to the Court of Directors, as the "jute of Natives," the first time the word "jute" appears to have been used in the official records. It is believed the term is derived from the name given by natives of Orissa to the Corchorus Olitorius, viz., "jhut" and it is suggested that its origin is found in the Sanskrit word for fibre, viz., "jhat." In any event it was under the name "jute" that the fibre was shipped to England, and it was under that name that 364 cwts. of raw jute valued at Rs. 620 appeared in the exports of the year 1829. Between the despatch of the first bale to England and that time, however, several parcels were sent home for experiment, and about the year 1820 manufacturers at Abingdon, Oxfordshire, spun jute into yarn for carpeting, but the general opinion was unfavourable, and for some years, brokers dealing in fibres were required to guarantee their sales free from adulteration by jute. In 1822 a small consignment reached Dundee, where, however, manufacturers were unable to spin the material, and that parcel lay for four or five years before being converted into doormats. Another attempt was made in 1824, but it was 1832 before success attended the experiments in consequence of the application of whale oil to soften the fibre. At that time the price of the raw material in Dundee was £12 per ton. At first, jute was manufactured mixed with flax and tow, but by 1835 pure jute yarn was being made and sold with the result that in 1837, the price of jute at Home had advanced to £22 or £23 per ton. The following year the Dutch Government bought large quantities of jute bags in Dundee, for the transport of the crop of coffee beans from their West Indian colonies. Thus was launched the jute manufacturing industry of Dundee and Calcutta.

With regard to the cultivation of jute in India, the fibre is obtained from two species, viz., Corchorus Capsularis and Corchorus Olitorius. There is little difference between these two plants except as regards fructification, the seed pods in the case of the former being globular, as compared with the cylindrical shaped capsules of the latter. During the early years of the industry the bulk of the crop was grown in the Rajshahi division of Bengal, and in 1872, a year which showed a wide extension of the area cultivated, there were returned 921,000 acres as under jute in Bengal, but since then the cultivation has extended into the neighbouring provinces of Bihar and Orissa, and Assam. Of the total jute crop, however, about 90 per cent. is still grown on the average in the province of Bengal, 6 per cent. in Bihar and Orissa, 3 per cent. in Assam, and 1 per cent. in Nepal. A competing fibre known as Bimlipatam jute is grown chiefly in the provinces of Madras and Bombay, but only small quantities are available for export, and the jute manufacturing industry of Bengal and throughout the world depends on Bengal for its raw material. The crop is a seasonal one, sown in March, April and May; harvested in July, August, September and October; and the great bulk is marketed in September, October, November and December. Preliminary Government estimates of the area under Jute are published annually in July, and final forecasts of both acreage and yield are issued in September.

* Revised.

Having dealt with the discovery of the commercial value of jute, the foundation of the manufacturing industry in Dundee, the expansion of area under cultivation, and the growth of exports of the raw material, reference may now be made to the development of the Mill Industry in India. As already mentioned, jute was used there for cordage and coarse cloth in the eighteenth century, and indeed it is not unlikely that the "gunny" mentioned among the articles exported from India to Persia during the preceding century included bags made of jute. In any event the term is now in general use only in the jute trade. The word is derived from the Sanskrit "goni" meaning "a sack" and although nowadays one speaks of the "gunny trade" as embracing all branches of jute manufactures and of "gunnies" as including all descriptions of bags made from jute, the terms are properly applicable only to the heavy goods or sacking side of the trade. The finer or hessian side of the industry was created and developed in Dundee. Doubtless the word "hessian" is derived from the name of the State of Hessen in Germany, through which the flax and linen industry travelled on its westward march to Scotland. Curiously enough, in America, which takes the bulk of India's manufactures of hessians, the cloth is known as "burlaps" under which name it is extensively dealt in throughout that country.

As already mentioned, pure jute yarn spun by machinery was being sold in Dundee in 1835, but it was not until 20 years later that machinery was applied to the spinning of jute yarns in India. In 1855, with machinery brought from Dundee, George Acland erected the first jute spinning mills at Rishra, near Serampore. Thus, with a daily output of about 8 tons of machine-spun yarn, was founded the Calcutta jute mill industry. To Acland also belongs the honour of starting the first Joint-Stock Company engaged in the manufacture of jute, for he formed the Rishra Twine and Yarn Mills Company, Limited, which continued until 1868, when the mill was partially closed down. In 1872, the business was restarted, and ran for a time as the Calcutta Jute Mills Company, Limited, and later as the Wellington Jute Mills, until it was ultimately acquired by the Champdany Jute Mills Company, Limited.

Although Acland erected some frame hand-loom for weaving gunny cloth to compete with the country hand-made article, the credit for the introduction into India of the first power-loom belongs to the Borneo Company, of which Messrs. George Henderson & Co. were Agents. In the Borneo Jute Company, Limited, the first of the home registered Companies was formed, and started work in the beginning of 1859 with a factory of 192 looms. Unlike the spinning Company, this concern, which combined both spinning and weaving, was very successful. Within five years the works were doubled, and in 1872 the venture was converted into the present Barnagore Jute Factory Company, Limited, with 512 looms at work. Since then these works have been extended, but it was only recently that the original mill buildings were demolished, and replaced by up-to-date premises. The Borneo Company was followed in 1862 by the Gourepore and the Serajgunge Mills, and in 1866 by the India Mills. Between 1869 and 1873, these mills increased the total looms at work from 950 to 1,250, and their successful working resulted, in 1872-73, in the starting of five new Companies, viz., Budge Budge, Fort Gloster and Seebpore (now Fort William), registered in Calcutta; Samnuggur and Champdany registered in Scotland. Within the next two years, another eight Mills followed, viz., Oriental (now Union North), Howrah, Asiatic (now Soorah), Clive, Bengal (now Belliaghatta), Rustomjee (now New Central), Hastings (transferred from Gourrock), and Ganges. This sudden expansion to 3,500 looms was more than was required in the trade, with the result that, with the exception of Kamarhatty registered in 1877, no more new mills were built until 1882, when the looms, including additions to existing mills, totalled 5,150. During the next three years, Hooghly, Titaghur, Victoria and Kanknarrah were floated, bringing the total looms up to 6,700, of which 4,900 were sacking and 1,800 hessian. Again the increase proved too much for the demand for the manufactured article, and it was to meet the situation thus created that the Indian Jute Mills' Association was called into being. The first general meeting was held on 10th November, 1884, under the Chairmanship of Mr. J. J. J. Keswick, and from that time this Association has been of the utmost value in regulating the output of the mills, to meet the varying demands of the trade. With the exception of the Calcutta Twist Mill, which was ultimately taken over by the Wellington Branch of the Champdany Company, no new mills were built between 1885 and 1895, although the existing Companies increased their looms to 9,701, of which 3,117 were hessian and 6,584 sacking. It was about this time that electric light was introduced into most of the mills. During the next five years, however, several new mills were started, including the Gordon Twist Mill, Khardah, Gondolpara (a French-owned mill built in Chandernagore territory), Alliance, Anglo-India, Standard, National, Delta, Kinnison and Arrathoon (now Lansdowne). The Delta was equipped with machinery taken from the Serajgunge Mill, the buildings of which had been destroyed by the earthquake of 1897. The new century, therefore, opened with 15,213 looms at work, and after another lull of four years, the Dalhousie, Alexandra, Naihati, Lawrence, Belvedere, Reliance, Kelvin, Auckland and Northbrook Mills were started, bringing the total number of looms at work in 1910 up to 31,755, of which 18,334 were hessian and 13,421 sacking. With the exception of the Albion, Angus and Empire, no more new mills were built until the outbreak of war, although additions to existing concerns brought the total looms at work in the beginning of 1915 up to 38,354.

During the war were floated Caledonian, Lothian, Orient, Waverley, Craig and Bally, the last-named being an offshoot of Barnagore. After the war the Inchcape Group started Nuddea and Megna, while there were also floated Cheviot, Benjamin (now Presidency), Birla and Hukumchand. Birla and Hukumchand mark the entry of Indian management into the jute trade, both these mills having Marwari firms as Managing Agents. In 1921 two American Mills came into operation, viz., Ludlow and the American Manufacturing Co., making with Angus three American-owned Mills on the Hooghly. These Companies' shares are almost all held privately.

The following table shews the development of the Calcutta Jute Manufacturing Industry in recent years, the number of looms in operation on the undernoted dates being as follows:—

The foregoing list of looms affords a striking indication of the extraordinary development of the Mill Industry in Calcutta during the last thirty years. Between 1890 and 1900 the number of looms was doubled, while the next decade witnessed the trade again double itself. Since 1910 the looms have been increased by 50 per cent.

At present, under the four days' working arrangement, no new extensions are permitted other than those which had already been ordered at the time of the agreement. This, it may be hoped, will give time for the consuming markets to digest the increased loomage before any further advance is made in manufacturing capacity. Meanwhile the mills working double shifts are working 4 days—or 54 hours—per week, though mills on single shift are working 6 days to obtain an equal number of working hours.

In reviewing the situation a year ago we stated that the full capacity even of existing looms was well ahead of the off-take and that it might be expected that before long there would be another cycle of expansion in demand, Jute goods continuing to be the cheapest form of packing and substitutes being as far away as ever. The high level of prices at which Hessians have been ruling this year, suggests that already the time is ripe for normal "expansion of demand." For several months past 9 Porter Hessians have found buyers at between Rs. 16 and Rs. 20 per 100 yards and this with a jute crop of 102 lacs of bales.

The exports of gunny, cloth and bags are of particular interest, showing a steady improvement from 1922-23:—

It will be seen that every quinquennial period shews remarkable increases in the quantities of cloth and bags exported to foreign countries. Incidentally, the statement shows also the gradual evolution of the export trade from bags to cloth, due, in a measure, to the import duties imposed by some foreign countries being heavier on bags than cloth, in order to protect their bag-making industries. The large increase in export of bags during the war period was due solely to the enormous quantities of sand-bags exported to the allied Governments. While the falling-off in exports of bags is only what might have been expected in the circumstances, the continued high level, at which exports of cloth have been maintained in recent years, testifies to the remarkable position held by jute fabrics in the world's markets, where other industries struggle for existence. If the jute manufacturing industry thus continues to hold its own, the prospects for investors in jute mill shares are most encouraging, though there will doubtless continue to be cycles of prosperity and comparative dullness, with the continual adjustment of supply and demand.

The year 1925 was a very prosperous one for the industry as it was a period of rising prices.

Jute Mills are nearly always "long" of jute, i.e., they hold stocks of jute much in excess of their sales of gunnies—so that a rising market invariably leads to good working results, even when, as happened last year, the rise in the price of manufactured goods is less than that of the raw material.

Last year experienced a steady fall in prices of Jute, Hessians and Sacking which commenced in January and continued until December. This year, however, whereas the price of Jute in September is practically the same as in January, 9 Porter Hessians which, at the beginning of the year stood at Rs. 14½, steadily advanced until in the month of August a level of over Rs. 19 was reached and at the time of writing the price is about Rs. 16½.

A table of prices for the 11 months ending November is given herewith:—

	Jute Loose 4's. 9 Porters.	Hessians Heavy C's.	Sackings
January 1927	... 13	14½	49
February	... 14	14½	51½
March	... 14½	15½	50½
April	... 13½	15½	49½
May	... 14	15½	45½
June	... 13	15½	45½
July	... 11	16½	46
August	... 12	19½	47½
September	... 12	18½	48
October	... 11	17	47½
November	... 10½	17½	47½

It is obvious from this that the Mills have enjoyed a period of prosperity unequalled since the war boom and such has been the margin of profit earned that already there is considerable talk of fresh Mills starting outside the 4-day week agreement and at the moment it would appear that the immediate future of the industry from the shareholders' point of view depends very largely on the progress made by these Mills during the next year or two.

At present the Mills within the Indian Jute Mills Association can be divided into two main classes, those working single and those working double-shift, the total number of hours worked in each case being 54. This limit has been imposed by the Association, but under the Factory Act 60 hours single-shift are permitted and 81 hours double-shift. Government is, however, now urging that all Mills should go on to the single-shift basis to enable factory inspectors to exercise a greater measure of control over hours of labour, etc. The general acceptance of a single-shift basis by the Mills would, we think, mean an end to the present 4-day week agreement and existing Mills would be free to add to their present loomage.

The question is not merely one therefore of the effect of an additional six hours on to the present working week, but to what extent Managing Agents would utilise the opportunity of increasing the number of their looms? The immediate effect we suggest would be:—

(1) The probable increase in the cost of raw material.

(2) The cheapening of goods.

It is noticeable that the amount of jute exported to the Continent this past two years has been on the increase, and an impetus has in consequence been given to Jute Mills situated in Germany, Italy and Czecho-Slovakia. We think, however, that this competition is not serious and the special reason for the activity on the Continent during the present year is the fact that Hessian prices have been at such a high level. We think that at any price under Rs. 14 per 100 yds. of 9 Porters, competition between Continental Mills and local Mills would scarcely be possible.

Turning to the share market, a comparison of prices of the shares of the principal Jute Mills with those ruling six and twelve months ago show that once again a very high level has been reached, a level justified by the profits made and the dividends declared:—

Such is the position of the industry under existing conditions that continued prosperity for at least another year is assured. Indeed, assuming the 4-day week agreement is maintained, it might be possible to look even two years ahead. We are bound to say, however, that in the long run present prices will prove to be high and those contemplating investing should very seriously consider the position. In the past two or three weeks a mild sensation has been caused by investors at Home becoming interested in the shares of Indian Jute Mills and considerable buying has resulted. Our own view, as we have previously mentioned, is that a 6-day working week is, considering all the circumstances, greatly to be desired, for not only does it remove the threat of the extra 2-day working capacity, but in the long run it cheapens the price of the manufactured article, and it must be admitted that the actual consumer of the article should have a voice in the price he pays.

SECTION VII.—TEA.

THE Companies dealt with in detail in this Section are Rupee Companies growing Tea in Northern India. We have also included as a supplement a number of Companies with Sterling Capital, the shares of which are ordinarily dealt in on the London Stock Exchange.

India is by far the greatest producer of tea in the world. Originally, China was the biggest producer, but with the arrival of modern machinery, other countries—India in particular—forged ahead while China remained stationary. Ceylon has also increased her production of tea but would now appear nearly to have reached her maximum limit. On the other hand, Java and Sumatra, which have of recent years become large competitors amongst tea-producing countries, will undoubtedly continue to open out fresh areas under tea. Considerable areas, which would have shown a further increase had labour not been in short supply, have been put under tea in North and South India. It may be remarked, however, that the tea produced in Southern India is only about 10 per cent. of the total output of India. Areas have also been opened out under reliable auspices in Kenya where there are possibilities for further expansion.

The Calcutta Stock Exchange is exclusively concerned with Companies whose gardens are situated in Northern India. The most important districts are as follows:—

Darjeeling.	Terai.
Assam.	Cachar.
Dooars.

The Darjeeling gardens are situated on the slopes of the Himalayas, whilst those in the Dooars and Terai run along the foothills of the Himalayas; the remaining districts may be classed as Plains gardens.

Darjeeling teas, as a whole, fetch high prices. They have certain characteristics and are the finest teas in the world for flavour. The yield, however, per acre, is very much smaller than in other districts.

Of the remainder, the best districts are those situated in Assam and the Dooars.

Assam gardens lie, roughly, along the North and South banks of the Brahmaputra between Gauhati and Dibrugarh, extending up to the limits of British India territory. Assam produces a hard pungent tea with a strong liquor. Gardens situated in Upper Assam are the most prolific, combining heavy production per acre, with excellence of quality, which is one of the most important points from an investor's point of view.

The Dooars, while not producing the fine character of Assams, nevertheless, give a good production per acre, and also work to a low cost per pound. The quality of these teas, however, is good, more particularly at the beginning and the end of the producing season.

Cachar and Sylhet—incorrectly termed quantity-producing areas—produce common tea. The cost of production is generally lower than from other districts, which helps to maintain a satisfactory margin of profit. Many gardens in these districts may be considered first-class in every respect.

The Terai gardens, although situated at the foot of the Darjeeling Hills, do not attain the quality of Hill teas. Results in this district are apt to show marked irregularity from year to year, owing to the greater prevalence of blight than is the case in other districts.

During recent years the tea market has exhibited very violent and extreme fluctuations. Common teas are naturally the first to feel the effects of a slump, whilst good quality teas stand a much better chance of fetching good prices. From an investment point of view, therefore, the best shares are those of Companies which can be relied upon to produce not only quantity, but also good quality, although it naturally follows that when the market is a strong one, producers of common tea, which are incidentally cheap producers, reap the greater benefit.

As regards the trade outlook, the position in September, 1926, was very uncertain. Production had been on the increase, even compared with 1925, which, in the first half of the year had proved most favourable to growth; when the first months of the second half of 1926 also yielded phenomenally big outturns, it appeared inevitable by the end of October that considerably more tea was going to be produced than the world could consume. Prices at this time were dropping very rapidly, and common teas were barely realising the cost of production. To remedy the situation, producers decided to cease plucking on and from the 20th November. This had some effect, but after an immediate improvement, prices again sagged, and remained at a very low level until well into the new year. It may be remarked here that gardens situated in Assam, which usually produce a larger proportion of tea during the latter half of the year, bore the brunt of this decision to cease plucking. The total crop amounted to 340 millions, as against 312½ in 1925, and 327½ in 1924. Early in 1927, Russia, after about a year's interval, re-started buying, and by taking 10 million pounds off the London market during the first six months of the year, completely changed the situation. The result was that instead of there being an excess of tea, production by the end of October this year was some 12½ millions short of the corresponding figure in 1926, although by the end of November this figure had reacted to 8½ million pounds.

At the time of writing, the statistical position appears fairly satisfactory, although, in view of the sharp increase in the figure of London stocks during October and November, the immediate outlook has become somewhat obscure. A good deal depends on the amount of tea that is produced during December, but it seems improbable that as much tea from Northern India will be made during the current year as during 1926.

The Ceylon and Java crops both mark increases compared with the previous year, particularly the latter, which is approximately 6 millions ahead.

The following are the average prices realised in public auction from the beginning of the respective seasons up to the 6th December:—

12-9	13-1	15-2

Turning to consuming markets, absorption in the United Kingdom continues to make a steady progress year by year. The American markets, which were expected to account for a largely increased consumption from the declaration of Prohibition, have so far been disappointing. It should be noted, however, that, whilst consumption has varied little from year to year, there has been a general tendency to insist on a better standard of tea than formerly. This, in itself, is a good advertisement for the industry and should inevitably lead to increased consumption. Figures of actual imports into America reveal the fact that Indian teas have gained ground as compared with teas from other countries.

Beyond question, the greatest factor in the tea trade at present is Russia. In pre-Revolution days, Russia consumed on an average about 80 million pounds per year. In 1924 she started to buy again but only on a small scale, and it was not until this year that she took substantial quantities. During January to July, 1927, Russia purchased over 10 millions in the London market, whilst direct shipments of tea, bought in the Calcutta market since the opening of the season at the beginning of June, amounted to 5 millions. In addition to this, a large quantity of tea was bought indirectly for the same destination. Lack of finance alone prevents Russia from operating steadily on a large scale. When once she settles down, the tea industry will undoubtedly be in a most favourable position. As long, however, as there is a country such as Russia taking 20 millions or more one year, and nothing in a subsequent year, the balance between consumption and production is bound to be a critical factor.

India, herself, has become an increasingly large consuming market for her own tea. Actual figures are difficult to obtain, but there is little doubt that these have been steadily on the increase, the estimate for last year's consumption being about 50 million pounds. This is essentially a market which profits by a low price for tea, and any rise in prices tends to check consumption. There are indications at the present time that India is not in the market on the same scale as last year.

The Egyptian market is also on much the same basis as the Indian and during past years, with prices on a low basis, she increased her off-take of tea materially.

There is no doubt that the general tendency in all countries is towards increased consumption of tea, but in many, particularly those to whom tea-drinking is new, the matter of price is of prime importance. The maintenance of a steady market at a reasonably low level of prices is of great value towards popularizing the habit of drinking tea in these countries.

It is unfortunate that this industry should continue to labour under the shadow of over-production.* Producers, however, have to a great extent the remedy in their own hands. A satisfactory feature is the continuance of the tendency at the tea sales of recent years to put a premium on quality as opposed to stinky teas; it is to be hoped that there will be a still further concentration on quality rather than on mere weight of output.

From the point of view of the share market, the year under review, until as late as October, was not very satisfactory. During the period of low prices between November 1926 and April 1927, the tea share market remained dull although there was not the set-back in share prices which might have been expected from the lack of confidence which prevailed in the trade. This confidence on the part of investors was vindicated within six months' time. The 1927 season opened with a strong statistical position and with the crop going steadily back on the previous year the result was a firm and advancing tea market, which was soon reflected in the share market. By November, share quotations generally had equalled the highest points touched in 1924, particularly in the case of Companies selling their teas at the London auctions.

A reason accounting for the paucity of business is that shares of a large number of the best Companies are so firmly held by people having a personal interest that they are impossible to deal in, no matter whether the outlook is satisfactory or the reverse.

Another cause is that a larger section of the investing public is chary of buying tea shares as a temporary investment. During the autumn of the year 1924 the public took an active interest; purchases were then made indiscriminately and were largely governed by the shares offering. When, however, during 1925, the outlook for the industry underwent a drastic change, and the disposal of shares became a matter of extreme difficulty, public confidence received a rude shock from which we venture to suggest it has still to recover.

There have been one or two bursts of activity but trading has been confined to comparatively few stocks of which a number are not in the front rank. Now that the tea-producing industry has shown its ability to combine, as took place at the end of 1926, the possibility in the future of an unremunerative year has been lessened considerably. We would, however, advise prospective investors that they must be prepared to retain their holdings should the outlook become less favourable temporarily as there does not appear any prospect of a material change from the present "one way" market even in respect of the more popular stocks.

The following figures show the imports into London during the past five years and stocks held in London at the end of each of the months named:—

SECTION VIII.—MISCELLANEOUS COMPANIES.

THE general improvement which in our last issue we referred to as being in sight has become an accomplished factor. During the year 1927 there has been a distinct all-round improvement as an indication of which share values to-day are, almost without exception, standing at higher levels than they were twelve months ago.

Below we refer briefly to the more important sections of the Miscellaneous market.

MINING:—The shares of the Burma Corporation Ltd., have kept fairly steady throughout the year between Rs. 10-8 and Rs. 9. Burma Finance and Mining however, have marked rather a sharp fall the price at the time of writing being as low as it has been any time during the past twelve months. Kangra Valley Slate have been in keen demand throughout the year but only one solitary transaction is reported and that in September when the shares changed hands at Rs. 200.

Quite a large business has been done both in Dollar and Sterling Tin shares, prices at the time of writing showing a tendency to appreciate.

ELECTRIC LIGHTING, POWER AND TELEPHONE COMPANIES:—The year under review has been notable in respect of the flotation of several new Power Supply Companies, the most important of these having been Benares, Jubbulpore and Muttra under the management of Messrs. Martin and Co., and Patna, Bhagalpur and Mozufferpore under Messrs. Octavius Steel and Co. Largely no doubt as a result of the scarcity of sound investments of the nature of public utility companies in India, most of the new issues were fully subscribed in a very short time and most of them are now standing at a small premium, with, however, scrip in very indifferent supply. It is significant that buyers are found willing to pay this premium in spite of the fact that they cannot look for any but a small return on their outlay for some two or three years to come; older ventures of this nature have proved an unqualified success and there is no reason to anticipate that things will be otherwise with these more recent flotations. The chief attraction is of course the fact that the revenue of public utility Companies is, or should be, a steady and gradually increasing one, whereas most industries are subject to the ups and downs experienced by all trades.

The Bengal Telephone Corporation has continued to make steady progress during the year and the shares of the concern have steadily appreciated in value from Rs. 9-12 in January last to Rs. 14 at the present time. With the steadily expanding use of the Telephone we look for a corresponding increase in this Company's revenue and profits.

ENGINEERING:—Twelve months ago this section was very much under a cloud; there was keen competition and not enough work to go round and many concerns were working either for no profit at all or for the barest possible margin. The year 1927, however, has seen a remarkable change in the fortunes of most of the more important engineering concerns trading on this side of India. The Indian Iron and Steel Co., after a somewhat chequered career, has come into its own and a satisfactory Report was produced in June last. Results for the current year should be even more satisfactory, and in anticipation of a substantially increased dividend distribution for 1927 the shares of the concern are to-day standing at over 100 per cent.

premium. The shares of the allied concern, the Bengal Iron Co., have been dealt in very largely on the Calcutta Stock Exchange in spite of the Company being a sterling one registered in the United Kingdom. After going through a very bad time the Company is now established on a substantial profit-earning basis and a good Report is looked for as the result of the current year's trading.

The Indian Standard Wagon Company also brought out an excellent Report and it is significant that these shares are to-day worth very nearly double what they were standing at in March last.

FLOUR MILLS:—The year has been a difficult one for the Flour Milling Industry, profits generally being on a reduced scale. This Industry, however, always has experienced considerable ups and downs, the result of irregular supplies of Indian wheat and high prices.

INSURANCE COMPANIES:—Shares of the National Insurance Company and of the Triton Insurance Company have marked a sensational rise during the year, the latter probably on intrinsic merit and the former for reasons not unconnected with the management of the Company.

OIL:—The Indo Burma Petroleum Co. in September last issued Rs. 30 lacs 7 per cent. taxable cumulative preference shares the bulk of this issue being subscribed many times over within a few hours.

PAPER MILLS:—During the year under review the Paper Mills operating in Bengal have experienced a time of prosperity to which they have been strangers for many years and as the result of the protection afforded by Government they have been able to make their shareholders a reasonable return. Great efforts are being made to bring Plant, etc., up to date with a view to the Mills being able to compete in the world's markets when the present period of protection comes to an end in about 5 years' time.

SHIPPING COMPANIES:—Chiefly as the result of bumper crops to be moved and more settled conditions in India generally, Shipping concerns have had a most successful year and Shipping shares are to-day standing at a very much higher figure than they were twelve months ago. The shares of the Bengal Assam Steamship Co., Calcutta Steam Navigation and India General Navigation in particular have appreciated very considerably during the year.

SUGAR COMPANIES:—Sugar prices throughout 1927 have been distinctly on the low side, but at the time of writing prospects are somewhat more favourable, this being reflected in the all-round rise in the price of Sugar Company shares within the last two or three months and there has been more buying than has been the case for quite a long time.

As the result of an excellent year's trading and the publication of a favourable Report, Murree Brewery shares recently changed hands at Rs. 200, the highest figure they have touched since 1920.

MISCELLANEOUS:—British India Corporation shares have not fluctuated very much during the year under review in spite of the rather unsatisfactory report published by the Company in March last. Conditions throughout the year have remained difficult but would appear to show some improvement on 1926. Calcutta Tramways have moved up to a figure in excess of their par value. There has been a fairly steady demand throughout the year for Indian Wood Products and Indian Cables; Calcutta Ice have, however, fallen to below par, the result of unfavourable trading conditions. Throughout the year the Great Eastern Hotel and Gauges Rope have been in good demand with, however, scrip being obtainable only on rare occasions.

Davar, Esq.; Oswald Martin, Esq. Managing Agents—Messrs. Burn & Co., "Hong-Kong House," Calcutta. Auditors—Messrs. Price, Waterhouse, Peat & Co.

Capital authorized and issued—Rs. 1,50,00,000 in 1,500,000 Ordinary shares of Rs. 10 each. Capital subscribed—Rs. 1,44,01,100 in 1,440,110 shares of Rs. 10 each, fully paid up. Debenture Capital—authorized £700,000; issued £550,000 in 7½ per cent. bearer bonds of £50 and £100 each, issued in April 1925, redeemable at par on 1st July, 1945. Company has option of repayment at Rs. 102½ per cent. on any earlier interest payment date after 1st January, 1935, on six months' notice. Interest payable on 1st January and 1st July. This debenture issue is guaranteed by the Bengal Iron Co., Ltd.

An annual cumulative sinking fund was established in 1927, which will be applied annually in April, in redeeming stock at par on 1st July. Accounts made up yearly to 31st March.

Income Debenture—authorized and outstanding Rs. 75,000 (£5,000) issued in March, 1925 to the Bengal Iron Co., Ltd., under an agreement* mentioned below in exchange for a similar debenture of that Company. This debenture ranks after the first mortgage debentures, and is entitled in the event of liquidation, to re-payment at par, unless the liquidation is for the purpose of reconstruction when it is to be replaced by a similar debenture; it is also entitled to 55 per cent. of the profits remaining after providing (inter alia) for interest and sinking fund on the first debentures and depreciation not exceeding Rs. 5,30,000 (£35,333).

The Company was formed to undertake the manufacture of iron and steel on a large scale, but for the present it is only intended to produce pig-iron and such by-products as are obtainable from the coke oven gases. The Company holds valuable mining leases for iron ore in the Singhbhum district and these properties have now been linked up with the B.-N. Railway by the new Amda-Jamda Railway. A mechanical loading plant has been installed at the mines and is now in operation.

The Works which are situated at Hirapur, near Asansol, consist of two large modern blast furnaces, each having a capacity of about 12,000 tons of pig-iron per month. A mechanical casting plant has been installed insuring an even quality of pig at a low manufacturing cost. The whole of the handling is effected by electrical power.

* An agreement exists between the Indian Iron and Steel Co., Ltd., and the Bengal Iron Co., Ltd., under which, after meeting each Company's prior charges, the surplus profit in each year of the two Companies, is divided in the proportion of 11/20th to the Bengal Iron Co., Ltd., and 9/20th to the Indian Iron and Steel Co., Ltd., accordingly, there appear in each Company's accounts participating income debentures for £5,000 and Rs. 75,000 respectively, which have been issued for the purpose of securing to the holding Company its share in the profits of the other Company. The agreement applies to each financial year on its own basis and any possible losses are not shared by the two Companies.

In June, 1925, the capital of the Company was reduced by reducing the nominal value of each share from Rs. 100 to Rs. 50 and in October, 1925, each of the existing shares of Rs. 50 was subdivided into 5 shares of Rs. 10 each. .
